Company Nurse Announces COVID-19 Exposure Triage and Reporting Services

You may have already seen the announcement: Company Nurse now offers additional services for COVID-19 exposure triage and reporting, including:

- COVID-19-specific triage based on the most up-to-date CDC guidelines;
- Enhanced alerting for potential COVID-19 exposure calls for immediate notification of possible exposures to proactively manage the exposure for the safety of your workforce and customers;
- Custom COVID-19 directives on a location-by-location basis to make sure your employees are aware of employer- and location-specific protocols;

- Triage to telemedicine, as appropriate, to avoid potentially dangerous interactions at medical facilities;
- And a customizable COVID-19 Interactive Voice Response (IVR) Hotline to help answer frequently asked questions about COVID-19.

“As COVID-19 coronavirus has become more prevalent here in the United States, we have seen an increase in airborne exposure calls,” stated Paul Binsfeld, president and founder of Company Nurse, “We have expanded our airborne exposure proprietary medical guidelines to identify possible exposures. Our registered nurses are using the most up-to-date recommendations from the Center for Disease Control when triaging these calls.”
